The War to Go on

London Sept 6 —The Herald's cable special says Bismarck telegraphs from Versailles Sept ...: I have spoken with Napoleon about peace but he answered that as a prisoner he had no power all depended on the Regency at Paris. Thus the capture of the Emperor does not discontinue the war

Dispatches from Paris

Paris Sept 6 —The Prussians have appeared in detached bodies at several points within the arrondissement of the Garde Nationale. Fresh volunteers are hastening to meet them. A collision is inevitable

The Republic has been enthusiastically proclaimed at Havre, Marseilles Marne Hagenau and Montpellier

The International Workingmen's Association have issued a manifesto saying that as Prussia at the outset of the campaign declared she waged war against the Emperor and not against the French people therefore France invites Germany, in the name of Justice to withdraw her armies from the soil of France. If not France must fight to the last man

Signor Carmusha the Italian Banker who was expelled from France for contributing to the anti-Plebiscitum fund has returned to Paris. He brings promises that Republics will be declared in several European States

The French Government has commenced revoking appointments of the Imperial ambassadors to foreign courts. The following are announced — Marquis de Lavallette at London Count de Mau... bourg at Vienna Gen Fleury at St Petersburg

Bazaine's Position

Paris Sept 6 —Bazaine maintains his position at Metz notwithstanding the strength of the Prussians. He is keeping 150 000 Prussians to guard him and to prevent his escape from the fortress. The Prussian advance reached Fismes in the Department of the Marne fifteen miles northwest of Reims. The main body is steadily approaching

Dispatches from Berlin

Berlin Sept 6—Evening —Official reports show that fifty French Generals are prisoners of war in the hands of Prussia

Princess Matilda was arrested near Dieppe to day

It is expected great Republican demonstrations will be made throughout Europe if the armies of Prussia surround Paris and attempt to crush out the efforts of the French people to create a Republic.

Trouble with the Carlists

London Sept 6 —The Carlists were attacked and beaten yesterday near Navarre. Several were captured, and among them were priests with arms in their hands. Another band of three or four hundred were encountered in the Province of Biscay. The insurgents attempted to destroy the railroad but were attacked by the Government troops and routed

The Ultimatum of Prussia

London Sept 6 —A cable special says a T... correspondent had an interview with Bismarck at the King's headquarters on the 2d. In response to the inquiry what were likely to be the conditions of peace demanded by King William Bismarck replied: There are three ways of stopping an attack on the Rhine Provinces

First—We might make Alsace and Lorraine a neutral State like Luxembourg or Belgium extending from the former country to Switzerland and separating France and Prussia by a government of neutral States but I confess that it appears to me that the neutrality of existing small States is already so difficult to protect and is at every moment capable of so much and so many dangerous complications that I do not think it would be worth while to make any more neutral States with new duties and dangers

Second—We might annex Alsace and Lorraine and hold them as conquered territories but I am sure that this would not be looked on favorably by the majority of German countrymen. We are anxious to complete our unity but we do not want any people among us who are unwilling members of the German nation. That the Alsatians would be the most disloyal subjects of the King of Prussia in spite of the great majority of them speaking the German language and being of Teutonic origin there can be no doubt

Third—There then remains to us the third course—to take Metz and Strasbourg and to keep them. This is what we shall do, for while France possesses Strasbourg there is nothing to stop a French invading army

Paris Sept 6 —The Prussian advance reached Fismes fifteen miles northwest of Rheims

London Sept 6 —The bombardment of Strasbourg has been suspended

THE TERRITORIES

The business men of Arizona have frequently affirmed that goods could be brought into that Territory cheaper from Eastern cities than from San Francisco. The Arizona Miner sustains this view of the case. It is now nearly a year since the current of trade with that Territory has changed

A special messenger has gone from Walla Walla to Colville for the purpose of ascertaining the names of the two miners one of whom was murdered near the crossing of the Spokane. He will also ascertain whether the survivor returned to Colville and in that way most likely will be able to solve the mystery of the murder

The Corinne Reporter says the last sermon of Dr Newman of Salt Lake on the subject of polygamy created a profound sensation finding vent in sobs and cries among the women and curses among the men. On Sunday evening after the close of the debate the feeling was profound and universal and the faith of many was shaken

THE POWER OF FRANCE"

[illegible]

Translated from the Courrier des Etats Unis Aug 18

Six weeks have passed since war was declared. France it was said, is prepared and we ... attack Prussia who is not prepared. We have for this ... army ready ... a word will be sufficient to hurl it against the enemy ... make a gap extending at least to the Rhine. The word was spoken the thunder ... and we have remained under arms for two weeks. Meanwhile the ... sians rushed forward they spread over our frontier they fell upon our territory like ... and they are in line to the number of six or eight hundred thousand or perhaps even a million of men in the presence of our army which they press push harass and threaten to crush under the weight of their numbers. How does it happen that they number so many and we so few? That is the question which we have constantly asked and to which it is time to give an answer

All Prussia is a camp for a long time has she been a military organization the entire male population is enrolled. There is first the regular army then the Landwehr and the Landsturm. These organizations embrace all every other branch of the service besides the regular army has like it its battalions its staff its equipment and armament all that is necessary is the order and every one has his place his regiment his company and his rendezvous. A beat of the drum and everybody is in arms. Nothing can keep them back neither business affections work shops nor families—everything is forsaken at the first call and there you have a million of men ready with their knapsacks on their backs. And that shows how it is that the Prussians appear by hundreds of thousands in one two three or even four places at the same time while we have only our regular army of two or three hundred thousand men with which to defend a frontier over fifty leagues in extent. In fact Prussia was ready and France was not. We sought to invade Germany and Germany has invaded us. We sought for Rhenish frontiers and lo! to-day we see the horses of the Uhlans bathing in the Meuse. Where will this stop, and must we be resigned to see our country contracted foot by foot, until the ditches of Paris form our last intrenchment? Stop there, if you please, and let us examine our condition

Prussia was ready and France was not but at this date Prussia has we hope gathered all the advantages she can from her relative superiority. Our turn has come. The lesson has been a hard one, but we have profited by it. It is time for us to resume the ascendancy which belongs to us and the retaliation will we feel certain be far more brilliant than were the first lost steps disastrous. Our population is equal to that of Prussia. We have therefore as many men capable of bearing arms. What is necessary is to turn them into soldiers. What we lack is that regimental discipline and that military organization equivalent to the Landwehr and the Landsturm of the Prussians. This organization has been perfected, and this is now accomplished. The National Garde Mobile is to-day a numerous force young vigorous fiery and which counts its hundreds of thousands of men rushing to face the enemy which ... having doubled will soon treble the numbers of our regular army while from one end of France to the other the National Garde Sedentaire receives muskets and cartridges, which at the proper time will be amply able to strike a hard blow at the enemy. Yes, no longer shall we be forced to see as at Woerth 35 000 heroes sustain the attack of 140 000 equal in number we have no longer cause to fear an enemy, too much self-satisfied with its triumphal success and we will ... with victories the cowardly attacks of those pitiable enemies who each morning, ambuscaded behind the impunity of their mercenary libels pour out upon our brave army and ... our noble country their venomous ... and their hateful calumnies. Has not the sentence decayed and dissolved been already proclaimed against our France so great so liberal so full of life and vigor? Have not her character and her morals been ... Do they not cry out that we have degenerated and that we have reached the period of ... down with the Empire?

Very good! the answer will not be very long in coming. As light comes by degrees we have to sigh for but alas to feel proud at our defeats. Have many nations ever recorded victories so glorious as our defeat at Woerth? When prosperity shall read the simple story of the conquered McMahon it will say: Valiant men and stout hearts were those 35 000 Frenchmen who, surrounded on all sides by 140 000 Prussians, fought without wavering and inflicted on the enemy a loss almost equal to their own, so that they disconcerted and weakened by such a resistance stopped short after their victory

Valiant and brave also were those Zouaves who of 60 officers, had 47 less after the battle. For twelve consecutive hours from 7½ in the morning until nearly 8 at night—did this unequal contest last, one soldier against four, one cannon against three

No! A country which boasts of such men is not degenerated land and if in accordance with ... she will once more we have to weep we need not blush. France may be as proud of her children as they are of her, and the day is not far distant when a shining crown of glory will be replaced about her sacred head commanding respect from the just and silence to the envious

And now to whom is due the fault of the past. The time has also come to consider actions and responsibilities. What was left undone to defeat this plan which would have given us to day two ... organized and well disciplined soldiers. What a clamor was raised against ... of the Government. With what unpopularity did they succeed in ... the project which would have saved us the humiliation of our recent defeats which would have spared millions of precious lives and would have avoided disasters to be retrieved! Such was the task followed without truce or mercy by the extreme faction ... whom the gratification of their ambition appeared as the ultimate goal for the attainment of which should be sacrificed the vital energies of their own country. Let all crumble honor prosperity greatness—provided that their day of triumph come! Let France perish could they but reign for a single day over her corpse!

But these men have deceived themselves. The day when France shall deem it expedient to take back the power belonging to her will not be the day when she will confide it to them. She will well know how (in order to re-seize the thread of her compromised destinies) to find strong hands, both liberal and pure without giving herself up to those which have bled her to death in order to make a good bargain of her weakness. She will find noble minds and honest hearts which will serve her faithfully in the time of adversity without having coveted her when prosperous

Appealing to Europe —There exists in the life of nations solemn and decisive moments in which God gives them an opportunity of showing what they are and of what they are capable. That hour has come for France. All Frenchmen will rise like one man, they remember their ancestors and their children. Behind them they see centuries of glory before them a future that their heroism shall render free and powerful. Never has our country been better prepared for self-devotion and sacrifice, never has it shown in a more imposing and magnificent manner the vigor and pride of the national character. It shouts with enthusiasm: Up! to arms! To conquer or die is our motto. While our soldiers heroically defend the soil of France, Europe is rightly uneasy at the success of Prussia. People ask themselves to what length the ambition of that insatiable power would carry her if she were intoxicated with a decisive triumph. It is an invariable law of history that any nation which by unbounded covetousness disturbs the general equilibrium challenges a reaction against its victories, and turns all other countries into opponents. This truth cannot fail to be again demonstrated by the results. Who is there interested in the resurrection of the German Empire? Who is there that desires the Baltic to become a Prussian lake? Can it be Sweden, Norway or Denmark—countries that a Prussian triumph would annihilate? Can it be Russia—Russia which is more interested than any power in saving the equilibrium of the North against German covetousness. Can it be England, which as a great maritime power and the protector of Denmark, is opposed to the progress of the Prussian navy? Can it be Holland which is already so much threatened by the avaricious intrigues of Count Bismarck? With regard to Austria, the restoration of the German empire to the advantage of the House of Hohenzollern would be the most fatal blow, not only to the dynasty of the Hapsburgs, but to the existence of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy —Paris Journal Officiel

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Oxford (Me) Democrat says that the license plank in the Democratic platform arose, from the fact that the police seized the liquor at the Bangor hotels just as the Democratic Convention was assembling whereupon that body indignantly resolved that the Democracy are opposed to the present prohibitory law

The Democrats anticipate gaining in Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia Louisiana and Texas, to secure which they have dropped their old name and assumed that of Conservative or Citizens' Party. This concession to the strength of their adversaries is a curious comment upon the fact that up to 1860 a Republican vote in the South was not only unknown, but would have been death to the daring man offering it. Now, without Republican help in these States, few Democrats can be chosen to any office

The Boston Journal says: "It is reported that Wendell Phillips is hesitating. He is undecided what course to pursue in regard to the nomination for Governor tendered to him by the Prohibitory Convention. He is not disposed to jeopardize the success of Governor Claflin, but he is not unwilling to show the Republican party the strength of prohibition in this State. If the leaders of the Labor Reform movement can secure for him the nomination of that party, it is thought possible the Republican party might be so weakened that the Democratic candidate, whether he be Colonel Adams, or the Hon W. W Warren of Brighton, might slip in." The Journal looks for a lively contest, and a total vote of at least 175 000 cast as follows: Claflin, 87,000, Adams 63 000, Phillips, 25,000

The 'political situation' is thus discussed in a letter written to the Philadelphia Press. The entire House in the present Congress chosen under the census of 1860, which is also the basis of the coming election for the Forty Second Congress is composed of 242 members, including Georgia and Louisiana not fully represented. Of these 242 the Republicans have 128 in the North and West including Missouri and West Virginia alone without counting Maryland Kentucky, Delaware or the late rebel States. A majority of 242 is 122 so that the Republicans can lose the whole South in the next elections and yet hold the next House. But it is morally certain that they will hold their own in South Carolina, Mississippi and Alabama with a fair chance for a proportion in each of the other States and a reasonable prospect for a gain in Maryland of three and in Delaware of one. Allowing a margin for all possible losses in the North and the West and we have the House by a decided, and, I think a very large majority

CURRENT NOTES

Telegrams indicate that the census will reveal a decrease in the population of New Orleans since 1860. At all events the returns already in show that the population cannot be much larger than it was then nor is this surprising in view of the effects of the war

The President has referred all the papers asking for action by the government to secure the release of Colonel W G Halpine confined in England as a Fenian prisoner, to the State Department and correspondence on the subject will immediately begin with the British government

Prof McGuffey who was prominent in the National Teachers Association in Cleveland originated the famous McGuffey's Readers while resident at Cincinnati years ago. After being President of the Ohio University at Athens he took the chair of Moral Philosophy in the University of Virginia fifteen years before the war and is still connected with the leading educational interests of the South

Some of the Southern Senators have inaugurated a novel method of retaliating on the North for their mischances. They are about to publish sets of school books of domestic manufacture. Extracts from the speeches and writings of such men as Patrick Henry, Adams, Webster and the old fathers of the Republic are to be scrupulously stricken out and the place filled with choice sayings from Toombs Wigfall Calhoun, and Jeff Davis

If reports from London are to be believed the Prussian war loan of 100 000 000 thalers is not taken readily by the German bankers. The fact seems almost inexplicable in view of the general high standing of the credit of Prussia of the high rate of interest at which the loan was offered and of the successes of the Prussian arms in the war. It is said that American bonds are preferred by everybody —a fact which may reasonably flatter our national pride a little.

British Columbia and the Union with Canada

The Government Gazette of British Columbia presents a dispatch from the Governor General of Canada, embodying the terms on which the Dominion Government is willing to accede to the union of British Columbia with the Dominion. This is a matter of sufficient interest to us here to justify an examination of it.

The first of the conditions proposed is that Canada shall be liable for the debts of British Columbia, existing at the time of the union. Second, inasmuch as the debt of British Columbia is smaller than that of the other Provinces, she shall receive interest at five per cent per annum on the difference between the actual amount of her indebtedness and the indebtedness per head of the population of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick ($27 77). The population of British Columbia for this purpose is to be reckoned at 60,000. This is a very favorable provision for British Columbia. Third, the Government of Canada is to pay for the support of the Government of British Columbia $35 000 annually, and an additional sum equal to eighty cents per head of the estimated population of 60 000. Fourth, an efficient fortnightly mail service in steamers is to be provided between Victoria and San Francisco. Fifth, Canada is to pay the salaries of all the principal officials, with the exception of the Legislature, provision for which is made in the third article. Lighthouses, buoys, marine-hospitals etc are also to be provided at the expense of the Dominion. By the eighth article British Columbia is to have three members in the Confederation Senate and six members in the House of the Commons.

All these articles are quite favorable for the people of British Columbia. But the articles on which most stress is placed are those relating to the construction of the great Canadian Pacific Railway.

Two years from the date of Union the Dominion proposes to commence the construction of this railway from the Pacific toward the Rocky Mountains, so as to connect the seaboard of British Columbia with the railway system of Canada, and it is agreed that within ten years after the date of the Union the railway shall be completed. To provide for its constructions public lands along the route are to be set apart in quantity not exceeding twenty miles on each side of the line. For this land the Dominion is to pay British Columbia the sum of $100 000 annually in half yearly payments, in advance.

By this condition the Dominion proposes to guarantee a thing which there is much reason to believe it will not be able to perform. The magnitude of the undertaking and the impervious nature of the country, rendering immense expense inevitable, will put it beyond the power of the Dominion to complete the road within ten years. The terms are good for British Columbia, inasmuch as she will receive a perpetual grant of $100,000 a year for the right of way, so that she will gain something even if the railway should not be completed within the time specified. The road, however, will cost not less than $100 000,000, probably much more. Looking at it in a practical way, the natural inquiry is, what inducement is there, what is to be the compensation for so vast an expenditure of money?

There are other conditions, such as a guarantee of interest at five per cent on the sum of £100,000 sterling for the construction of a graving dock at Esquimalt, an agreement that the Dominion shall be at all necessary charges on account of the Indians, and that the Dominion Government shall exert its influence to secure the continued maintenance of the British naval station at Esquimalt. If British Columbia do not ratify these terms and consent to the union she will be strangely blind to her own interests and neglectful of her opportunities. The advantages, as we view the matter, are all on her side.

S. B. Axtell, Democratic Congressman from San Francisco, writes from West Richfield, Ohio, to the San Francisco Chronicle, under date of August 23d, as follows: "I have just returned from a short trip to Niagara and the Great Lakes. Crops very good. The country is greatly prosperous. There is no marked political feeling—certainly no great breaking up of parties. The new House will stand about as the present. Your idea that the war will aid the Republicans is correct." These statements may be commended to the consideration of the Democratic press generally. "Country greatly prosperous"—that is, Democratic stories of general ruin are all moonshine,—"no great breaking up of political parties,"—that is, there are no indications of the "Democratic groundswell" which some of the lesser lights of the party are so fond of predicting; "new House will stand about as the present,"—that is, Democrats will have about one-third of the members,—"war will aid the Republicans,"—that is, the Germans will not vote with those who have not sympathized with their country. Mr Axtell has the reputation of being a very shrewd political observer, and no doubt he has judged wisely again this time.

The Germans of San Francisco, many of whom have heretofore acted with the Democratic party, held a rousing meeting a few evenings ago, at which they resolved to vote the Tax Payers' ticket. One of the resolutions declared that the "German element of the city had been overwhelmed by the most unjustifiable attacks, and had their feelings deeply hurt, because they had stood firm and true with the land of their birth in the hour of need; therefore they would not act with the party which had thus dealt with them." One of the speakers said that the German element show that it was by no means to be despised, even if not equal in strength to the other naturalized nations. Another said that the Germans would go to the polls and by a decisive stroke cut off the arrogant and domineering party from the public offices forever, and thereby gain a victory as glorious as their German brethren had been gaining in France.

All accounts from correspondents describing the late battles agree that the French on every occasion were vastly outnumbered. A correspondent of the New York Herald at Carlsruhe says that the German forces at Wissembourg were to the French as two to one, and adds that at Woerth it was the very same thing. This speaks well for German generalship, but how bad a story it tells of French leadership.

Though the result of the election in San Francisco is not to be taken as a Republican victory, it is certainly a pretty stunning Democratic defeat, and will exert a marked influence upon the politics of San Francisco and indeed of the State of California hereafter. It puts the Democrats in such a position that they will not be able to make a strong fight in the next political election.

"Disagreeable Information"

The DAILY OREGONIAN of the 24th of last month closes up a brief comment on our Rock Point letter published two weeks ago with the rather emphatic assertion that "Southern Oregon will not get a railroad." We fancied that the OREGONIAN took just a little satisfaction in imparting this to us by no means agreeable piece of information in the article referred to.—Jacksonville Sentinel.

The Sentinel proceeds to say that it looks [illegible] the statement [illegible] very unkind, but adds that if [illegible] Judge Williams [illegible] most positively [illegible] OREGONIAN.

We wish to say to the Sentinel that the remark which it quotes from us was uttered in no unkind spirit, and that we took no satisfaction in making it. On the contrary we have labored with all our power to secure justice for Southern Oregon. Prior to the June election we did our utmost to make the people of that section of the State see their real interests. But they did not comprehend the situation until it was too late. They voted in such a way as to deprive themselves of every chance of obtaining a railroad. When therefore we say they will not get a railroad we do not make a statement that we take satisfaction in making; we simply state a disagreeable and stubborn fact.

Senator Williams is the only man who could carry through the great measure in behalf of the southern portion of the State which he inaugurated at the last session of Congress. All the other members from the Pacific States in both Houses are against it. But Senator Williams is defeated, and the political party which made this very measure of his the principal object of their opposition in the late election, have a majority in the Legislature. No reason exists, therefore, why he should strive to maintain the interests of Southern Oregon in this matter. If the people there care nothing for their railroad interests why should he push himself forward to fight their battles and get in return nothing but their disapprobation?

In all probability this matter will be decided at the session of this winter. Senator Williams has only to let go his hold and the advocates of the Pengra route can have it all their own way. The Central Pacific Company can get the grant just as they want it, and they will take it according to the terms of the original bill. The matter therefore will be disposed of before the Senator to be elected at the approaching session of the Legislature gets his seat in the Senate. Does not the Sentinel begin to see the situation? But granting that the case may not be finally settled till after the new Senator takes his seat, we would like to know what new man, totally unknown to the Senate and unused to business of that description, could get this bill through for Southern Oregon against the united opposition of members of long standing and acknowledged influence in both branches of Congress? It is for these reasons that we have stated that Southern Oregon will not get a railroad. If the information is not "agreeable" to the people of the southern counties we cannot help it. They have only to wait and see.

Conditions of Peace

The French, it is said, demand that the Germans shall withdraw from their country before they will consent to talk of terms of peace. "No peace while the enemy is on French soil" is the declaration in Paris. This, under the circumstances, is absurd. It proposes a thing that is impossible. The Germans cannot withdraw from France until they are assured of peace on such terms as the advantages they have gained give them a right to demand. To withdraw now without conditions would be to throw away all that they have acquired with such vast sacrifice of life and treasure. The war must be carried on upon French soil, or peace must be concluded on French soil. For if the war is not carried on in France it certainly will be in Germany. The Germans therefore cannot give up their present advantages and retire from the French territory with the idea of making peace afterwards. That would be little better than idiotcy. The peace must come first. Germany must make it sure that the war will not be transferred to the other side of the Rhine. If the French will not listen to peace while the German armies are in their country, the war must certainly go on.

As France began the war, Germany now that she has an advantage will not make peace until she has secured indemnity for the past and security for the future. No doubt she will insist on the transfer of some of the fortresses on the Rhine frontier, and probably considerable portions of territory. She will hardly forego this opportunity to deprive France of that strong line of fortresses which are both a defense to her and a menace to Germany. Consider how France would act if she had an equal advantage. She would certainly take the Rhenish Provinces of Prussia. These are the accidents and fortunes of war. Something Germany will claim and something France will be forced to concede. The world will consider this right and reasonable. But the demands must not go too far. If in addition to indemnity and security Germany interferes in the internal affairs of France and meddles with her form of Government she will not be justified by mankind, and will injure her own cause.

The English claim to have a rifle which beats the needle-gun, Chassepot, Enfield or Snider, and that is the Martini Henri. If the accounts given of it in the London papers can be relied upon it must be a most deadly weapon. At a recent prize shooting match at Wimbledon four competitors stood up with this rifle, and the closeness and accuracy of the firing, until the file firing of a company in three minutes the target became almost invisible owing to smoke. One of them fired fifty-five times in the three minutes, or rather more than eighteen times a minute, and he hit the target every time. The target was so defaced as to be useless.

THE TERRITORIES

Contracts have been awarded to various parties to furnish materials for the construction of the Assay Office at Boise City. The Department at Washington has approved them.

We have received the premium list of the First Annual Territorial Fair of Washington Territory, to be held at Walla Walla on the 21st, 22d, 23d and 24th September. Also complimentary tickets to attend the same. Extensive preparations have been made to ensure a successful Fair. The effort ought to be well sustained by the whole people east of the mountains.

The completed census returns of Detroit exhibit a very gratifying growth for the City of the Straits. The population of Detroit in 1860 was 45 619. It is now ascertained to be 79 640, being an increase of 80 per cent in ten years. Milwaukee, Detroit and Cleveland had each about the same population in 1860, and from present indications they differ very little in numbers now. They are all handsome thriving cities of great promise and commercial importance.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 7.—More deep water vessels have arrived within the last four days than during the same period for many years. The list foots up 30 vessels of nearly 9,000 tons. There is now over 50 000 tons available for wheat or other cargoes.

Gen Grant has decided not to start for California until after the short session next spring. He will probably be here in May or June. This is positive. The Chicago Zouaves will come in June also.

The treasure remittance to New York by railroad during the past week aggregated $[illegible], mostly silver bullion, including $60 000 gold.

Enthusiastic Reception of General Sherman

The reception of Gen Sherman proved a magnificent affair. The first manifestation was at daybreak at Cisco, where a band played "Marching Through Georgia," and a few miners cheered. Sacramento is credited with doing the [illegible] band something. Stockton, where Gen Evans made the welcoming speech, also did nobly. At Dacota the second committee of California Pioneers received him. At San Leandro a large crowd cheered. At Brooklyn Gen Ord, who was on the platform, was mistaken for Gen Sherman and loudly cheered, many shaking hands with him. At Oakland and Oakland Point the whole population was out, and great numbers rushed up to shake hands with the General. The boat arrived at the San Francisco Wharf at 6 30 P M, when Chas D Carter, President of the Pioneers, received him with an address of welcome back to California. Meantime Blaxome's Battery fired a salute. The second brigade N G C and California Pioneers, 150 strong, were ready at the wharf to receive him. The 1st regiment, Col Barnes, was out with pretty full ranks and made a splendid appearance. The 2d regiment, Col McKenzie in command, came next, and the Irish battalion, Lt Col Wason commanding, with very full ranks, brought up the rear. Gen Sherman walked off the wharf arm in arm with Carter and Mayor Selby, and entered a carriage drawn by four horses.

The procession passed up Montgomery street, and along the entire line the First and Second Regiment bands played "Marching Through Georgia," and the Irish Battalion band played "Red White and Blue." Flags were everywhere displayed, and the crowds which filled every window and blocked the crossings and streets, cheered incessantly and waved handkerchiefs, General Sherman bowing acknowledgments right and left. At least a thousand persons rushed pell mell after the carriage—between it and those containing the Pioneer's committee and Gen Ord and staff—all endeavoring to touch the hero of the March to the Sea, or at least to get a close view of him.

Around the Lick House the crowd numbered many thousands, and it was with difficulty that the party entered the hotel. The General was finally introduced and escorted to his rooms and left for the night.

He was swept off his feet and carried into the hotel on the shoulders of the crowd.

Gov Haight and the members of his staff in citizens dress, will call on General Sherman to-morrow.

The excitement over the election was almost entirely lost in that of the General Sherman reception.

Municipal Election.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 7.—The Tax Payers have swept the city on the general ticket, though Austin, Dem, for Tax Collector, and Rosenfeld, Dem, for Fire Commissioner, are probably elected, and the vote for Public Administrator is very close between Doolan, Dem, and Benjamin, Tax Payers. The total vote up to this time is reported at 19 071, with one precinct, the Eleventh Ward, to be heard from, which will make it about 19 300.

Crowley will have from 1 000 to 1 500 majority for Chief of Police. Supervisors elected—First Ward, Hanson, Republican and Independent; Third Ward, Kenney, Democrat; Fifth Ward, Goodwin, Democrat; Seventh Ward, O'Neill, Democrat; Ninth Ward, Schrader, Republican. The straight-out Republican and Anti-Chinese each polled from 100 to 200 votes in the city.

Discovery of an Immense Cave

SALT LAKE, Sept —Parties in Cache Valley while at work on the road have discovered a huge cave with stream of water running through it toward the entrance. They explored it with lights for two miles but found no other opening. Some places are so high that the roof could not be discovered. A thorough exploration of this natural wonder will shortly be made.

"Rocky Mountain Region all a Sea"

The Salt Lake News under the above head submits the following:

The idea that the Rocky Mountain Region was once a sea is pretty well established by geology, always [illegible] plain to those acquainted with that beautiful science. On high points of many of the mountains of Utah there are deposits of what were evidently once sea shells, and the monsters of Bear Lake, whose existence is now authenticated beyond a doubt, are no doubt the descendants of denizens of the mighty ocean that once submerged those regions.

The White Pine News has the subjoined in the same connection:

About 10 miles to the southeast of Hamilton is a high plateau of land containing an extensive deposit of marine shells, and the fossil remains of a large variety of extinct species of fish. But the curiosity which almost challenges with interest all investigations of antiquarians is the petrified form of what was evidently once an immense sea monster. It lies on a high point, and in a position giving rise to a theory that this plateau was once a great shoal, and that the antediluvian leviathan floundered and perished on its surface as the waters receded. The petrification is perfect, and it is estimated to weigh about ten tons. It presents a full appearance of the head and body of that of a humpback whale, and the extremities extend into the feelers and antennæ like the polypus or devil fish, with the exception that they were evidently, during the life, lined with a hard and bony substance. The eyes are set in each side of the head, which is flat and oblong, and are twenty-four inches apart. The mouth is armed with triple rows of teeth, sharp in front, but underneath and well into the jaw are turned into grinders capped by a solid osseous formation running back from the widest portion of the head. In this respect it resembles the celebrated marsh cow of Central America, amphibious in habit, graminiverous on land and carnivorous in water. The length of this singular relic of antiquity has not yet been determined, but as the body blends into the tail it tapers off to so small a size that, making due allowance, its entire weight would not be far from that stated. This whole country abounds in curious fossils of a marine character. We have seen specimens of the [illegible] found in our immediate vicinity which puzzled scientists and antiquaries.

GERMAN SANITARY FUND BENEFIT.—It can hardly be necessary to remind our fellow citizens of the benefit to be given to-night for the German Sanitary fund. Taken as a mere occasion for amusement the entertainment will be a most interesting one, but the managers have a higher purpose than to merely afford an hour's enjoyment to a few hundred spectators. The movement is in the cause of humanity, to not only minister to the wants of suffering men, but to testify also our appreciation of the sympathy which the German people extended to our country and our soldiers through the trying period of the American rebellion.

ARRIVAL OF THE WEBFOOT.—The bark Webfoot, Gage Master, arrived in tow by the steamer Okanogan, Tuesday night. She sailed Aug. 25th, arrived off the bar Sept. 5th, had favorable weather the entire voyage. The following is her manifest: C & M 1 098, E & B 1,610, Eden M 1 205, F Levy 2, F & Co 27, H H Tuttle 5 wagons, H D & Co 109, diamond H C 100, H C & Co 100, H L Gordon 9, J K Gill 3, J Megler 21, M A Carres 15 wagons, M S S S & D 173, diamond S 25, S B & Co 237, W L & Co 550, W J & Co 120.

COUNTY COURT—HAMILTON, JUDGE.—Wednesday September 7th.

In the matter of the estate of Wm. M King, license granted to sell real estate.

In the estate of Wm McMillen, final settlement of estate made and order made discharging A. R. Hallock as administrator, and H. C Leonard, C Bills and R Williams, sureties in bond of administrator, from all further liabilities to estate.

H. R. Riley appointed Road Supervisor in district No. 18, to fill vacancy caused by the death of Supervisor D [illegible].

IMPROVEMENTS.—The new proprietors of the Cosmopolitan Hotel have already commenced making alterations and improvements in the house. They are going to put in a new front, the bar is to be removed to near the front entrance and the old bar room is to be converted into a public reading room, the office is to be remodeled so as to make more room, the entire house is to have new finishings, and the eating arrangements are to be conducted on the restaurant plan.

COMPLIMENT TO OUR GOVERNOR.—The Alta California of the 1st inst. speaks thus of Gov. Woods, who has just returned from a visit to San Francisco: "Governor Woods, of Oregon, arrived in this city a day or two ago, and is stopping at the Grand Hotel. The Governor is one of the leading men of the Pacific coast, and as an orator has few equals in the country. He is kindly remembered by the Republicans of this State for his brilliant canvass in the campaign of 1867."

MILL CLOSED.—Vaughn's mill has closed for the present on account of the scarcity of wheat in the market to be had at living rates. Farmers are holding in the expectation of a rise, while all the markets in the world are going down. Under such circumstances there is nothing for it but for millers and dealers to close operations.

GOOD.—Marshal Saunders has instructed his deputies to strictly enforce the ordinance concerning horses and cattle running at large in the streets. People who have been pestered by thievish cows will rejoice to hear this, and will pray devoutly for the continuance of the department's well-doing.

UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT.—While assisting to move an old engine yesterday Mr David Monastes had the misfortune to get his fingers caught under it. The flesh was badly mangled and two or three of his finger nails were crushed off. We did not learn whether any of the bones were broken.

ICE CREAM FESTIVAL.—The ladies of Zion M. E. Church were disappointed about getting ice by steamer—for their festival Tuesday night, for the benefit of their pastor Rev J Lodge, and consequently the affair was postponed till this evening, when the festival will take place.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.—During the last five months Messrs Russell & Ferry sold lots and blocks in East Portland and vicinity, amounting in value to nearly $100 000. The parcels realized from one hundred to more than ten hundred per cent, on the value of one year ago.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES TO-DAY.—Public worship will be conducted in the Presbyterian Church this morning at 11 o'clock and 7 45 in the evening. The services are in connection with the meeting of the Presbytery now in session. The public are cordially invited to attend.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.—A burglar cut a pane of glass out of the show window of Levin Bros. about 11 o'clock Tuesday night. The glass fell on the floor and waked the clerk who was sleeping in the rear room, when the burglar took to his heels.

SAILED.—The propeller steamship Geo. S. Wright sailed from this port at 6 o'clock last evening for San Juan, Fts Tongas and Wrangle and Sitka. She carried the U S mails and a full freight.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT REAL ESTATE SALE.—On Saturday Mr A B Richardson will offer for sale several desirable homestead lots in this city. For particulars read his advertisement.

TOWN CLOCK.—The clock destined to be placed in the tower of the Odd Fellows' Temple in this city, arrived by the last steamer. We are not advised as to when it will be put up.

GOING TO WASHINGTON.—Gen. Jeff C Davis, who arrived by the Geo S Wright from Alaska, is under orders to report at Washington, and will leave here per steamer [illegible].

GONE BELOW TO LOAD.—The [illegible] has gone down the river to load with lumber for San Francisco. She will take about 700 000 feet from St. Helens and Oak Point.

PUMPING.—[illegible] No 4's engine was out yesterday pumping out the cistern at the intersection of Front and Columbia, which is to be repaired.

GONE TO WALLA WALLA.—The Overland [illegible] started yesterday morning for Vancouver, Dalles, Walla Walla [illegible] about two weeks.

SELLING OFF AT COST.—[illegible] are selling off their summer stock at cost. Good bargains may be had by those who [illegible] soon.

FOR ASTORIA.—The steamer [illegible] will make a special trip to Astoria on Saturday, the 10th inst.

The great [illegible] upon this State. The locomotive whistle is already heard [illegible]. The North Pacific [illegible] and surveyors on the line, and we shall soon have thousands of men coming [illegible] new settlers are at work every month [illegible] our State and develop her resources. But [illegible] not how [illegible] come, Rouse & Fisher [illegible] ready for them with a stock of Clothing and Staple [illegible]. They are constantly receiving fresh [illegible] every steamer, so that stock can be [illegible]. Call and see them at their old stand on Front street.

OREGON

S A Johns, W S Moss and T McBride have been admitted to practice in the Supreme Court

The Monmouth newspaper which is to be published in the interest of the Christian denomination by Professor Campbell, will be issued, says the Statesman, some time during next week

The holding of the proposed Jackson County Horse Fair has been postponed until the last Thursday, Friday and Saturday in October, which will be the 27th, 28 h and 29 h of the month This change is made to accommodate those who may wish to attend the Siskiyou County Fair to commence October 12th

While Superintendent Meacham was at Klamath, recently, he ran a line across the Reservation along what is known as Mahogany Mountain and gave Capt., I D Applegate complete control of the part east of that line This step was rendered necessary by the ill feeling and jealousy between the Modoc and Klamath Indians which was the main cause of the former leaving the Reservation

From the Jacksonville Sentinel "Mr Al Sturgis from Steamboat Diggings, exhibited to us, this week several large nuggets and over $800 of amalgam gold, which had been taken out lately by the company of which he is a member They have been to work at their claims for nearly two years, expending a great deal of labor and money, but have struck it at last and are now in fine spirits "

The Statesman learns that Mr R C Kinney has received highly flattering accounts of the progress of his two sons in New York [illegible] who was admitted to Bellevue Hospital last year has been selected for promotion to the post of Principal of that institution and Alfred who is ready to graduate is confidently expected to be one of the lucky six who rank highest on examination, and thus secure the appointment to Bellevue

A letter from Ellensburg (Aug 23), to the Jacksonville Sentinel says The seaport of Ellensburg (at the mouth of Rogue river) can chronicle the arrival and departure of the schooner H[illegible] about the first of the month also the schooner Al[illegible]—the latter loaded with wool and passengers bound for San Francisco also the arrival on the 21st of the schooner [illegible] of 150 tons burthen Capt Laughell seven days from San Francisco with merchandise for Fisher and Ellensburg Mill Co

AN EMPIRE WITHOUT INHABITANTS—The area of the organized Territories of the United States including Alaska is greater than of all the States which have been admitted into the Union There are nearly a thousand million acres of land in these Territories according the following table

Washington	[illegible] 160
New Mexico	[illegible] 64
Utah	34 0[illegible] 043
Dakotah	[illegible]
Colorado	[illegible] 88 [illegible]
Montana	[illegible] 64
Arizona	[illegible] 240
Idaho	[illegible] 258 160
Wyoming	[illegible]
Indian	[illegible] 24
Alaska	[illegible]

In all this vast area there are probably not over half a million of white inhabitants In natural resources this territorial domain is richer than all the area included in the States The latter contain, say forty million inhabitants But here is a country waiting for forty million settlers and even these would hardly be near enough for neighborhood purposes Railroads will open up the country and bring in population What a magnificent country to carve into homesteads for forty millions of landless people!

Accidents will occur even in the best regulated families and SPALDING'S GLUE should be kept handy

WAR MISCELLANY

A Madrid dispatch says The success of the Prussian armies have caused the revival of the question of the Hohenzollern candidature There are rumors that General Prim is in favor of submitting the subject to the people by means of a plebiscitum

A Paris telegram gravely announces that "Marshal Bazaine has decided to remain in Metz" We should think so But for what reason the dispatch adds is not stated Perhaps the Prussians can supply the information as the Marshal's reason for staying where he is which he has strangely omitted to furnish

When the fighting about Metz was going on a telegram from Berlin gave the total of the troops engaged under Steinmetz and Prince Charles at [illegible] 48 000 including under the former the 1st [illegible] 8th and 9th corps and under the latter the 2d 3d 4th 10th and 12th and the Saxons leaving any possible aid from the Crown Prince out of the count

A special correspondent writes from Frankfort August 6th The delay in taking Strasbourg is due to the mismanagement of the General commanding More than one opportunity for striking a blow has been lost supplies that might have been intercepted have been allowed to enter the fortress Great progress has been made since the change in generalship

A telegram states that orders have been given by the French Government that the march of the Prussians be opposed by every obstacle the patriotism of the people can suggest in addition to the systematic measures which will be executed under the direction of engineer officers sent out by the Government Troops and food are ordered to be destroyed everywhere on the approach of the enemy and roads and bridges to be torn up or burned

On the 29th August the Paris Siecle said The object of the Prince Napoleon's visit to Florence is to procure the safety of the dynasty, while France is forgotten Are we to forget France and think only of the Bonapartes who think only of themselves? True Italy Austria and Russia may yield to such inducements as Bonaparte may offer but England will not The Prince who is now with Ollivier has already transferred his ample wealth to Italy

A special correspondent of the T[illegible] writes from Paris that the intolerance of certain journals is revolting The Gaulois proposes that women not wearing mourning in the streets should be insulted Figaro complains that there have been only 2 000 arrests The Prefect of the Police says there is room for no more in prison [illegible] replies "If you cannot lodge all the Prussian spies shoot them and you will have more room " As a consequence of recent suggestions the same journal proposes to supply Prussians with poisoned provisions

The number of troops furnished by the four South German States for the prosecution of the war against France, is as follows

Bavaria	117 4[illegible]0
Wurtemburg	34 953
Baden	42 [illegible]3
Ducal Hesse	14 218
Total	209 3[illegible]4

These do not embrace the Landwehr, who are now being called out but only the first line Perhaps 150,000 South Germans are serving with the left wing, under the Crown Prince the remainder being engaged in the seige of Strasbourg and in performing garrison duty

The present war will probably make the debt of France greater than that of any nation in the world The debt of England which is the greatest at present, is even now but a little in excess of that of France and the extraordinary credit of 500 000 000 francs voted by the Corps Legislatif makes the two debts almost equal But the French Ministry acknowledged that this sum will be entirely inadequate for such a war and so we can expect that further sums may be voted The Chambers of Prussia have also voted a credit of 120 000 000 thalers, but the debt of the country is so small that even a larger increase will not put the Prussian finances in a precarious condition

Baron Rothschild, in Paris has received from members of the Orleans family the following sums for the society to give assistance to the wounded The Countess of Paris, 10,000 francs, the Duchess of Chartres 10,000 francs, the Princess of Joinville 20 000 francs in remembrance of the Duchess of Aumale, 50 000 francs The last subscription was accompanied by a note from the Duke of Aumale, in which he says "Were the Duchess of Aumale still alive, she would have been one of the first to come to the assistance of our wounded soldiers and of the families suffering on account of war In remembrance of one who is no more, I pray you to forward 50,000 francs for the national subscription "

The overthrow of McMahon was thus foreshadowed in a dispatch from London, Aug 31 McMahon is about to make a desperate effort to force his way from Sedan along the line of the Montmedy and Thionville railroad, with the object of attacking from the north whatever Prussian forces may be gathered in the triangle formed by the fortress of Metz, Verdun and Toul, regardless of their numbers McMahon hopes to have co operation at all these places The attempt is a desperate one, as there is no escape from destruction in case of defeat It is believed the Emperor and his son will await the result of this movement at Sedan, and be ready to cross at Bouilon into Belgium in event of a defeat

SPIRITUAL GROVE MEETING—At Butteville on Friday Saturday and Sunday Sept 9th 10th and 11th Good speakers have been secured for the occasion The P T boats will carry passengers to and fro for half price They will also dispatch an extra boat on Sunday for the benefit of those wishing to go on that day

False Pretenses
The vast and continually increasing sales of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have provoked the envy of a certain class of dealers in various parts of the country who are trying to substitute their utterly worthless nostrums for the most popular proprietary medicine in the world. These [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the millions who patronize the great American [illegible] [illegible] As the demand for Hostetter's Bitters is now so large and urgent as to tax to their utmost extent the facilities of its manufacture these petty attempts to wring in their nostrum trash by false representations are of little consequence [illegible] They are [illegible] at this season when a real invigorant is greatly needed the sufferer from general debility indigestion biliousness or nervous weakness is coaxed into using a wishy-washy compound without any medicinal virtue instead of the sovereign specific in which the rarest tonic and alterative vegetable elements are scientifically combined It is obvious that he will rue the day when he allowed himself to be thus deluded It is the interest of parties who have been or may be influenced by the persuasion of plausible charlatans that this article is published With the light of twenty years experience to guide him, why should the invalid take a leap in dark

The French National Anthem.

[illegible]

Ye sons of France, awake to glory!
Hark! hark! what myriads bid you rise!
Your children, wives and grandsires hoary,
Behold their tears and hear their cries!
Shall hateful tyrants, mischief breeding,
With hireling hosts, a ruffian band,
Affright and desolate the land,
While peace and liberty lie bleeding?
To arms! to arms! ye brave!
The avenging sword unsheathe!
March on! march on! all hearts resolved
On victory or death.

Now, now the dangerous storm is rolling,
Which treacherous kings confederate raise;
The dogs of war, let loose, are howling,
And lo! our fields and cities blaze;
And shall we basely view the ruin,
While lawless force with guilty stride
Spreads desolation far and wide,
With crime and blood his hands imbruing?
To arms! to arms! ye brave, &c.

With luxury and pride surrounded,
The vile, insatiate despots dare,
(Their thirst of power and gold unbounded)
To meet and vend the light and air;
Like beasts of burden would they load us,
Like gods would bid their slaves adore,
But man is man, and who is more?
Then shall they longer lash and goad us?
To arms! to arms! ye brave, &c.

O! Liberty, can man resign thee,
Once having felt thy generous flame?
Can dungeons, bolts or bars confine thee?
Or whips thy noble spirit tame?
Too long the world has wept, bewailing
That falsehood's dagger tyrants wield;
But freedom is our sword and shield
And all their arts are unavailing.
To arms! to arms! ye brave.

Paris and its Fortifications.

[From the N. Y. Bulletin.]

Unless the German armies now facing McMahon and Bazaine suffer a great defeat, the French Capital will soon have the invaders under its walls. Always a great center of observation, Paris is now watched with an absorbing interest by all the world. The city is in one of those supreme crises which have marked its wonderful history for more than 2,000 years. Such is the antiquity of the gay capital of modern fashion, art and letters. Before the opening of the Christian era, and when Cæsar conquered Gaul, Paris was a small fortified town, occupying only the little island in the Seine which is now a mere dot in the heart of the city. Its first inhabitants were a fierce tribe of Celts, the Parisii, holding to the druidic faith. They burned the place to prevent it falling into the hands of the Romans, 55 years before Christ. At various times since that day, and in every stage of its constant growth, Paris has been exposed to assault and capture. It remained under Roman rule until the fall of the Empire, and was often the headquarters of the Emperors. Julian liked it and made it a city in the fourth century. In 465 it was stormed by the Franks, under Childeric, and before that had narrowly escaped destruction at the hands of Attila. Later in the same century it was taken by Clovis, the founder of the first Christian and French Kingdom. From this time on it grew in political and civic importance, until 885, when it became the capital of France, under Hugh Capet, the founder of the long line of monarchs whose living descendants are the Bourbon Princes, and whose direct heir is the Count of Paris, Louis Phillippe's grandson. The Normans frequently attacked Paris in the ninth century. It was taken by the English, under Shakespeare's "Prince Hal," then Henry V., in the fifteenth century, after a terrible siege, accompanied by famine, plague and insurrection. Henry marched into the city with much parade, and was proclaimed King of France and England. Paris then contained 300,000 souls and included an area of 1,061 acres within its walls. It was not again taken by an enemy until 1814, and then only after its power of resistance had been weakened by the constant warfare of nearly 25 years. The allied armies were gallantly resisted by the garrison, supported by the National Guard and the students of the Polytechnic and Veterinary Schools, until the hopelessness of the contest became apparent and the city capitulated.

Paris had long before this event been the heart of France, and the arbiter of the national fate. It was the metropolis that organized and controlled the Revolution, that directed all the remarkable events from its outbreak until the restoration of the Bourbons, and that has since successively dethroned Louis XVIII, Charles X and Louis Phillippe, and declared the Republic of 1848, as it may soon end the Empire of Napoleon. Under the Unfortunate Louis XVI, Paris had enlarged its area, within the extended walls, to 8,124 acres and contained a population of about 700,000. The three or four preceding monarchs, and particularly Louis XIV, called "The Great," had much improved the streets and architecture, and multiplied its institutions of charity, religion, arts and letters, its palaces and churches. But the most extensive and splendid improvements of Paris have been made by Louis Napoleon, inheriting and expanding the designs of his uncle and of Louis Philippe. Under his direction a stupendous plan of public works has been carried out, including besides a remodeling of the streets, which has transformed the city, the establishment of the finest sewerage and police in the world, the opening and ornamenting of public grounds and parks, the creation of wonderfully convenient means of communication. In short, the Emperor has made Paris at once the most cleanly, convenient, and handsome city in Europe; and thus its material improvement has kept pace with the strides in science and literature which have made it the grandest center of influence in Europe.

The Paris of to-day contains a population of about two millions. The city limits were extended to the fortifications in 1860, incorporating the suburban towns and villages grouped outside the walls of Louis Sixteenth's time, and a large extent of open fields and gardens. The area within these limits is 18,315 acres, through which curves the river Seine, kept within bounds by a solid stone embankment, and crossed by numerous superb bridges. The city is built on a nearly level plain, which is only 100 feet above the sea, and is broken only on the right bank of the river by a range of hills. From the chalk formation underlaying the city have mainly been drawn the materials for the construction of houses for the living, while the space thus excavated has been partly used as a depository for the dead, forming the famous catacombs. The fortifications of Paris were mainly constructed in the reign of Louis Philippe under the instigation and direction of M. Thiers, who was at one time the Premier of that monarch, and who seems to have had a shrewd apprehension of a coming struggle with Germany. It was in remembrance of this fact that the Empress Eugenie lately toasted M. Thiers, as reported by the Paris journals, and it is only a just recognition of his energy and skill in planning defensive works that he has just been added, against his wish, to the Committee of Defense. The fortifications consist of a bastioned and terraced wall, which averages nearly 40 feet in height, surrounded on the outer wall by a ditch nearly 20 feet deep and from 50 to 160 feet wide, the sloping bank or escarpment of which is faced with masonry for 41 feet against the wall. The wall and ditch form an irregular circle about the city, nearly 22 miles long. The wall presents 94 angular fronts, and has 65 entrances, namely 51 gates, which are notable architectural works, 10 passages for railways, and 4 posterns. A continuous carriage road and railway follow the interior of the wall, intersecting all the railroads and other thoroughfares leading to and from the city. The system of defense is completed by 17 detached angular forts on the outside, each in itself a powerful fortress, and all presenting 93 fronts, defending the approaches in every direction, and connected by a series of strategical roads.

The walls and forts were armed in time of peace with 2,138 mortars, cannons and howitzers, and 575 rampart guns, 200,000 muskets and an adequate supply of projectiles and powder. Since the present war began the number of guns on the ramparts and forts has been increased to 4,000 or 5,000, according to telegraphic reports, manned by 18,000 experienced gunners from the fleet. The defenses are garrisoned with 200,000 troops, who are being constantly reinforced by recruits from the country, supported by volunteers from the resident population, including a large number of workingmen who have closed their shops, or thrown down their tools, to assist in the defence of the Capital.

Paris was never so well prepared for defense as at this time. But whether it is provisioned to sustain a long siege, or whether its excitable population now will long consent to be exposed to the horrors of a seige, is not so certain. If the Germans are able to resume their march on the city, they will find the approaches for it in a circuit of 40 miles, obstructed, and the most exposed avenues will be defended by troops. Railroads will be torn up, bridges destroyed and carriage-ways blocked. To prevent an approach under cover of the Bois de Boulogne on the west, and of the Bois de Vincennes on the east, portions of those forests have been felled and earthworks erected across the roads leading through them. Numerous houses have been torn down close to the walls to leave a clean sweep for the guns, and the trees felled have been used in the construction of abatis. Two days ago the Germans were approaching from the northeast, their scouts having reached Meaux, distant about 25 or 30 miles, or an hour's ride by rail from the capital. If the Crown Prince has turned north, as now seems pretty certain, to assist in the operations against McMahon, the movement on Paris will be arrested until after McMahon has been defeated. If he is not defeated then Paris will probably be saved. One can easily imagine with what feelings that city of two millions must await events.

Extracts from a New York French Paper.

We find the following in the Messager Franco-Americain of the 21st, ult.

When the Prussians summoned Strasbourg to surrender, the people of this heroic city answered, Never! Never! That is the word which should now resound throughout all France. Never! That is the glorious word which the Parisians should repeat if they have the hearts of their Alsatian brothers. No, Paris will not surrender; France will enter upon no negotiation so long as a Prussian soldier presses his foot on her soil. They may deliberate as much as they like at London, at Vienna, at St. Petersburg, they may prepare their projects of peace. The diplomatists may parcel out our country as they choose and assigning Alsace to King William, make him promise to be magnanimous, and address to France counsels of prudence and of resignation. At this time France takes counsel from no one but herself; her prudence is her inflexible determination to fight to the bitter end."

Referring to the terms of peace lately made public, the same journal says:

"If the Germans are obtuse enough to wish for an Empire after France's example, and their own experience during centuries, if they wish to render immovable the absolute authority of the house of Hohenzollern, and to prostrate themselves before King William and his descendants, let them do it as much as they choose; that is their business. If that is what they call progress, they prove their ability and fitness to march at the head of Europe and of civilization, as they pretend to. With regard to the downfall of Napoleon, there is only one word to say: it was decided some time ago. * * * As for the Orleans family we do not believe that it has merited the insult which it has to-day received from the Prussian Government. * * * They have offered their services to France to fight against Prussia, not in order to seek shelter under the hated flag of the Hohenzollern. We know not the plans of the Imperialists party, to which party our country owes the disasters of the past fortnight and its third invasion. One thing is certain, and that is, that the Empire is defeated, and there is therefore, no further reason for its existence. But the empire having passed away, France remains France; France remains invincible. From the time when the enemy stepped on its soil the imperial war became a national war. Those only can lead who are resolved to conquer or to die; those only who will never consent to any deed of shame; those only who have faith in the destiny of the European Democracy, and who know that it belongs to a free and Republican France to march at the head of the nations."

Democratic Professions and Practice.

(From the Chicago Republican.)

The Democratic war on August Belmont, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is spreading. The Congressional Convention of the Sixth District in Ohio has just passed a resolution requesting him to resign, and the Cincinnati Enquirer responds in a hearty "amen." It thinks it is "a gross impropriety and indecency for the agent of the Rothschilds, a banker representing foreign monetary interests, to hold so prominent a position in an organization which is jealous of the monetary power, and which demands that its exclusive privileges shall be curtailed or abandoned." It is a little remarkable that a National Convention that nominated Seymour and Blair, and went into the canvass as the opponent of "bondholders," should have headed the party with the agent of every bondholder in Europe. It was doubtless done to illustrate profession by practice, in the good old Democratic way. But some of the party have discovered the trick, and grown uneasy. They forget how handy the arrangement is, when money is wanted to break down the labor system of this country. Belmont, among his other qualifications, is no doubt an ardent "free-trader." He believes in raking in the American pile, and could he do that as easily as at the head of the Democratic party? It is hardly fair to kick him out just as he is getting things fixed, and his pseudo Republican passes underpay. The Democracy will find it a hard job to shake off this Old Man of the Sea.

A Paris letter says Washburne, the American Minister, has a hard time of it. The Germans in France are under his protection, and every one who is arrested for violating the recent proclamation of General Trochu, demands at once to be taken before Washburne for examination.

SECURE A HOME!!

THE RIVERSIDE

HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION!

OF

EAST PORTLAND, OREGON.

IS NOW PREPARED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS to their Stock.

Applications for ONE HUNDRED SHARES was made before the books were opened, and a large number of Shares have been taken.

The following extracts from the Oregonian and Bulletin will convey a good idea of the plan and workings of the Association, the location of the land, etc., etc.:

RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

This association of whose organization we gave an account a few days since, is now ready to dispose of shares. As it is with one exception, (the Portland Homestead Association,) the pioneer organization of that kind in this city, it may be well enough to state what are its purposes, and the manner in which it is proposed to conduct its operations. The purposes of these Homestead Associations are not at all speculative in the ordinary sense of the word. They are dependent for the profits of their investment upon the natural advance in the value of their lands, consequent upon the co-operation of many individuals—shareholders—and the advance on values of all surrounding lands by reason of the expansion of population and demand for room outside of, but still near, the city. The Riverside Homestead Association has a fraction over one hundred and twenty acres of land situated just south of Brooklyn on the east side of the river, the nearest boundary line being about one mile from the ferry landing at East Portland. The tract lies in one strip along the Wallamet river, half a mile in length, and another strip along the Oregon and California railroad, half a mile in length, the two strips being connected near the middle by two rows of blocks (with a street between them,) the whole forming a figure not unlike the letter H. It is divided into 74 blocks, 200 feet square (with streets running at right angles) and 80 fractional lots, along the river front. The shares number 600, worth $60 per share. It will be seen that a share thus represents nearly a lot with an undivided interest in the 80 fractional lots. The 80 fractional shares are to be sold off at the proper time for the benefit of the Association, shareholders coming in for the proceeds in proportion to the number of shares held. When all shares are taken and the Association shall determine to do it, the choice of lots and blocks will be put up at auction to the highest bidder, the proceeds of such sales, after deducting the original price of shares or lots, to be divided equally among the whole number of shares. Thus, if a person wants a particular lot or block, and is willing to pay $100 or $500 premium (more or less as the case may be) he pays it and takes the lot or block as his individual property, the premium being divided among the whole number of shareholders. It will be seen, therefore, that everything is co-operative, and all interests mutual. No man can make a dollar out of it without also making a dollar for every other equal shareholder. There is no chance for loss, unless the property by some chance, should depreciate far below the first actual cost. Whether this is liable to happen in the case of this particular tract of land must be judged by each for himself, but considering the steady and unprecedented advance on real estate in this city and neighborhood, and at East Portland and vicinity, for the last year or two, it seems hardly possible for values to go back.

In the Riverside Association all proper precautions seem to have been taken to guard against monopolies of shares. No person is allowed to buy more than the number of shares representing three blocks or twenty four lots, and votes determining the operations of the Association are restricted in the same manner. The buyers of shares may pay down $60 per share, which will exempt them from all assessments, or they may pay $15 quarterly with an assessment of $3 per share, payable with the first installment, being liable in this latter case to another (and only one other) assessment of $3 per share. Upon the payment of the shares in full, with the assessments as above, the holder is entitled to his certificate and his proportion of all the profits accrued from all sources. No officer of the Association receives any pay for services except the Secretary, who gets $25 per month; so it will be seen that the expenses must be light.

That part of the tract lying along the river is a high plateau, nearly level, about 60 to 90 feet above the water. There is no part of the front row of blocks but commands a splendid view of Portland and the river for miles up and down stream. That part of the tract lying along the railroad is, every foot of it, of the richest loam soil and adapted to gardening purposes. A beautiful little stream of pure water runs through almost the entire length of this wing of the tract, affording the means of irrigation, and power sufficient to supply pure water to every part of the whole tract. There is not a waste lot or fractional lot in the entire tract. Under all these advantages, it would seem impossible that there should be any chance of loss to shareholders. Within a year each shareholder, if he choose, may get a perfect title to as many lots as his shares may represent, or he may continue his interest, undivided, with the Association while the organization may exist.—Oregonian.

THE RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

We have been led to make these remarks from the fact that the subject of making homesteads on the outskirts of this city and East Portland, is being thoroughly discussed here among all classes, and one homestead—the "Riverside"—just south of East Portland—has already been established. The site selected is a tract of land lying a little over a mile south of the ferry landing. It is shaped like the letter H, one side of which, a half mile in length, borders on the river.

From this portion of the homestead, which is elevated but a trifle above the other prong of the H, but is still forty or fifty feet above the river, can be had an extensive view of Portland, East Portland, the shipping, and the Wallamette river for several miles. The land is very fertile, and is partly covered with light fir timber. A tract of land just wide enough for two rows of blocks, with an avenue between them, connects the west prong of the H with the east, which has already been described; with that of the east. This last tract of land is in a beautiful little valley, which is now under a high state of cultivation. Through its entire length runs a trout brook, the water of which is clear as crystal. With a hydraulic ram the water can be [illegible] to have water conveyed through [illegible] every part of the homestead.—Daily Bulletin.

Go to them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, who [illegible] made private diseases his especial study [illegible] to ascertain to cure the most inveterate [illegible] cury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the unfounded doctors who infest all cities [illegible] in curing all diseases in a few days by [illegible] public by using the names of eminent physicians of Europe and other places. Be therefore [illegible] strict inquiry, or you may fall into the [illegible] of charlatans.
